

Call for Instructors – Social Service Worker Diploma Program

Shingwauk Kinoomaage Gamig (SKG) is excited to invite applications from passionate educators and practitioners to teach in our new two-year Social Service Worker Diploma Program.

This program is rooted in Anishinaabe aadziwin (worldview) and designed to prepare graduates with the knowledge, skills, and cultural grounding to serve individuals, families, and communities with compassion, respect, and integrity. We are seeking instructors who are eager to share their expertise while supporting student success through culturally relevant and community-centered learning.

We welcome instructors with experience in areas such as:

- Social work practice and theory with Indigenous and diverse individuals, families and communities
- Community development and advocacy
- Mental health and addictions
- Family and child welfare
- Indigenous approaches to healing and wellness
- Policy, ethics, and professional practice

Ideal candidates will bring:

- Professional qualifications and work experience in social services, social work, or related fields
- Teaching, training, or mentorship experience with adult learners
- Commitment to Indigenous knowledge systems and respectful engagement with community
- Dedication to fostering inclusive, supportive, and transformative learning environments

Why teach with SKG?

- Contribute to an Indigenous-led post-secondary institution with a bold vision for the future
- Inspire and mentor the next generation of social service workers
- Work in a collaborative, supportive, and culturally grounded environment
- Be part of shaping a program that blends academic excellence with land-based and community learning

To apply, please submit a cover letter and resume to:

humanresources@shingwauku.org

The posting will remain open until all positions are filled.

Together, we can empower learners to serve with heart, uphold the dignity of all people, and strengthen the wellness of our Nations and communities.
